

My Pledges to You

- To fight for decent homes for all by expanding safeguards for private lets and improving services for tenants & leaseholders.
- To keep tackling the antisocial behaviour that blights too many lives, making sure the Council uses victim-centred case reviews and encouraging long-term solutions.
- To work for meaningful improvements to our environment, our shared spaces, the air we breathe and the safety of our communities.
- To listen to you, act on your concerns and fight for fairness & equality for all in Ouseburn and the whole city.

We are here for you

Working hard and speaking up for Ouseburn

Hello I'm Alistair. I've lived in Ouseburn ward for more than twenty years, and throughout my career as an advice worker and fairness campaigner I've put people's wellbeing at the heart of what I do.

That's how I approach being a councillor – fighting for fair treatment for all residents, quietly helping people get the support they need, and making sure your voices are heard.

“We’re supporting Alistair for Ouseburn”

Dear Residents,

I'm delighted to have again been selected to be your Labour Candidate. I am the only Labour voice on the Council for Ouseburn, speaking up for you from within the Labour administration.

It is vital that, through these times of continued Tory cuts and cost-of living crisis, your voice is heard.

Last year the Labour-led council launched the city's first ever inclusive economic strategy, and the first anti-poverty strategy, working collaboratively with partners across Newcastle. We're now a real Living Wage employer despite Liberal Democrat calls to delay its implementation.

In March, at the launch of Newcastle as a Living Wage City I was moved to hear the real difference this is making to hundreds of people's lives. Inequality has no place in our city and I promise to continue to fight for everyone's right to thrive.

Achievements like these, in the face of ongoing Tory cuts, are being delivered by an administration that is ambitious for Newcastle and has the values and determination to find solutions rather than just point at problems.

You will find me out and about in our neighbourhood, getting on with the things that are important to you locally in our shared spaces or the things that matter to you personally when you need a little extra help with the problems you face.

I am here for you, and I hope to be able to serve you further so please find time to vote for me on May 2nd.

Yours, Alistair

Suzanne Smeaton

“I've known Alistair for years and whenever I've needed anything he's really helped me out. It's never a waste of time to contact him because he always does something. I feel confident that he genuinely cares for the shop and I have someone who will listen to me. I have faith that Alistair really cares about the area. He got things sorted out with the council when I felt like a victim, and I really appreciate that”
